Tornadoes Kill At Least 22 People in U.S. State

WASHINGTON, Tenn. (AP) — Tornadoes ripped across Tennes- see early Tuesday, shredding at least 40 buildings and killing at least 22 people. One of the twisters caused severe damage across downtown Nashville, destroy- ing the stained glass in a historic church and leaving hundreds of people homeless.

NATIONAL EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT Agency (NEMA) said in a statement that a Tornado F-16 jet downed an L-39 fighter jet over of Idlib on Tues- day afternoon.

The plane was reportedly shot down by Syrian forces over the Idlib province. The forces shot down an unmanned military drone, which was flying over Turkish airspace.

The drone was carrying reconnaissance equipment and was reportedly targeting a nearby military base.

The attack came amid increasing tensions between Turkey and Syria over the Idlib province. Turkey has accused Syrian forces of violating a ceasefire agreement and has threatened to take military action if the ceasefire is not upheld.

Turkey has periodically launched military operations into Syria to counter the growing influence of its ally, the Syrian government. The Turkish government has also been involved in a number of military actions in the Black Sea region, including a naval exercise with Russia.

The attack comes at a sensitive time, with negotiations on a new ceasefire agreement expected to begin in Geneva on Wednesday. The talks are aimed at stabilizing the situation in the region and allowing for the safe repatriation of refugees.

The attack underscores the risks and challenges facing international efforts to achieve a lasting peace in the region. The conflict in Syria has drawn in multiple parties, including the United States, Russia, and Turkey, each with their own interests and objectives.

The US-Taliban deal, which was signed in February, was seen as a significant step towards ending the conflict. However, the agreement has been met with skepticism by some, who argue that it fails to address the root causes of the conflict and does not ensure a lasting peace.

The attack on the drone is likely to further complicate efforts to achieve a ceasefire and a lasting peace in the region.
